

Associate Professor Miloš Brunclík, Ph.D.

Born 13. 1. 1981, Prague (Czech Republic)

Milos.brunclik@fsv.cuni.cz

Academic Qualifications:

2019 Habilitation in Political Science (Assoc. Prof.)

Appointed Associate Professor of Political Science by the Faculty of Social Sciences of Charles University

2008 Doctorate (Ph.D.)

Dissertation in Political Science successfully defended at the Institute of Political Studies, Faculty of Social Sciences, Charles University.

2005 Graduate Studies (Mgr., equivalent of M.A.)

Master studies in Political Science successfully completed at the Institute of Political Studies, Faculty of Social Sciences, Charles University.

1999–02 Undergraduate Studies (Bc., equivalent of B.A.)

Bachelor studies in Political Science successfully completed at University of Hradě Králové.

Work Experience:

Since 2/2013: Charles University, Faculty of Social Sciences Associate Professor, teaching Czech language and English-language undergraduate and graduate courses

11/2016: Ludwig-Maxmillian University in Munich (guest lecturer)

9/2007 – 9/2020: CEVRO Institute, teaching Czech-language and English-language undergraduate and graduate courses

2/2010 – 12/2013: The Institute for Language and Preparatory Studies, Charles University: teaching courses called „Capitalism and Communism” for US students in the program International Studies Abroad

Further professional activities:

Since 5/2016: Editor-in-Chief Acta Politologica, a peer-reviewed political science journal issued by the Institute of Political Studies (Scopus indexed)

1/2017 – 4/2021: Evaluator of research grants for the Czech Science Agency

12/2016 – 6/2019: Head of evaluators in the group political science and sociology within the Grant Agency of Charles University

Since 10/2017: member Standing Group ECPR Presidential Politics

Reviewer for

- Party Politics
- British Journal of Political Science
- Democratization
- Politics and Governance
- Slovak Journal of Political Sciences
- ...

Selection of grant projects:

2020 Research Project no. 20–05069S Constitutional Conventions in Central Europe, funded by the Czech Science Foundation (principal investigator)

2015–17 Research project no. 15–01907S Does Direct Election Matter? Analyzing the Effect of Direct Elections of the President on the Working of the Political Regime in the Czech Republic, funded by the Czech Science Foundation (principal investigator)

2011-13 Research Project no. P/11/2406 Comparative Analysis of Internet Voting in the Worlds and Analysis of Feasibility of Internet Voting in the Czech Republic, funded by the Czech Science Foundation (executive investigator)

Recent selected publications:

Brunclík Miloš, Kubát Michal. 2021. Constitutional Conventions in Central Europe: Presidents in Government Formation Process. Problems of Post-Communism. On-line first.

Brunclík, Miloš. 2021. Three-fold gap: Researching constitutional conventions in the Czech Republic. A review article. Czech Journal of Political Science 28(1): 20-36. DOI 10.5817/PC2021-1-20.

Brunclík, Miloš. 2020. Úřednické vlády v Evropě (Technocratic Cabinets in Europe). Brno: Books & Pipes.

Brunclík Miloš, Kubát Michal. 2019. Parliamentarism, Semi-Presidentialism and Presidents. Routledge: London and New York.

Kopeček, Lubomír a Brunclík, Miloš. 2019. How strong is the president in government formation? A new classification and the Czech case. East European Politics & Societies and Cultures 33(1): 109-134.

Brunclík, Miloš a Parížek, Michal. 2019. When are technocratic cabinets formed? Comparative European Politics 17(5): 759–777.